THE MOTHER GOOSE EGG HATCHED ALL BUT ONE AND 'HAS CLOSED

THE EGG IS HATCHED
BUT THIS IS UGLY
DUCKLING

l'ovo si è schiuso, ma l'anatroccolo è brutto...

THE MOTHER GOOSE IS A LITTLE SURPRISED SEEING BORN DIFFERENT FROM OTHERS

La mamma oca rimane meravigliata vedendo nascere un "piccolo" diverso dagli altri.

MOTHER DUCK BRINGS HER CHILDREN TO THE POOL FOR THE SWIMMING TEST

Mamma oca porta i suoi piccoli
allo stagno per la prova di
nuoto

EVEN THE FARM ANIMALS MADE FUN OF HIM AND RUN AWAY THE UGLY DUCKLING

Anche gli animali della fattoria
lo prendevano in giro e il brutto anatracolo scappò via ---

THE DUCKLING SLIPS
INSIDE THE HOME OF AN OLD WOMAN WHO LIVED WITH A CAT AND A HEN, BUT EVEN HERE IT IS TREATED BADLY AND RUNS AWAY

Il
Il smatrocchio si infilò dentro la dimora di una vecchia donna che viveva con un gatto e una gallina
Ma anche qui venne trattato male e scappò via...

Guardando il proprio riflesso
nell'acqua, finalmente il "brutto anatroccolo" si accorse di essere
anche lui un cigno e di essere
bellissimo

LOOKING AT HIS REFLECTION IN THE WATER,
FINALLY, THE UGLY
DUCKLING, HE REALIZED
HIMSELF TO BE A SWAN, AND TO BE BEAUTIFUL

Who has not ever feel an ugly duckling? Often in this type of situation we found ourselves a bit 'all trivial even for a simple reason during our childhood and teenage years living a sort of "diversity."

This trait is very evident in the tale in the step where you open that big egg and takes out a gray, ugly duckling, unlike any other and then mocked and marginalized. The small, feeling rejected moves away, run away to look elsewhere for a bit 'of warmth and acceptance .... But one day, wading in the reflection in the water, the "uglyduckling" he realized that he too was a swan beautiful and contemplated by all ...

MORAL: There are no ugly ducklings but each of us is a beautiful swan !!!!!
